

ABSTRACT

An insurance marketplace is facilitated by providing an interface to allow a server system to receive a request from an insurance producer, operating in a jurisdiction, to place an insurance policy of a specific type in the jurisdiction, and to transmit to the producer authorization from a broker who is licensed in the first jurisdiction to produce the insurance policy.